DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to applicant's amendment, Paper No. 11, received on May 06, 2002.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: the sentence "Said object is achieved by the features indicated in claim 1" on page 2, line 9 is improperly referred to the claim, because the specification has to be clear and complete in itself. The specification should not be referred to the claim, which relies on the specification to define the subject matter and the scope of the invention.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States
- 4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Geyssel (4,584,046).

Geyssel discloses an apparatus for applying a drinking straw to a receiving surface of a stand up bag comprising: transfer means (figure 9) which rotates a transfer drum 20, stand up bag 12, drinking straw 11, and conveying surface 13; the transfer means is arranged so that the drinking straw while being handed over encloses an acute angle  $\theta$  (marked as  $\theta$  by the examiner on figure 9) with the conveying surface. The angle  $\theta$  corresponds to the angle forms by the stand up bag receiving surface and the opposite side surface of the bag lies on the conveying surface.

Application/Control Number: 09/690,409

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed May 06, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In respond to the applicant's argument that the article which is adapted to receive the drinking straw, in figure 9 of Geyssel, is resting on the conveyor surface on its bottom surface and not on the side surface, the examiner's interpretation of the figure 9 of Geyssel is that the package 12 is resting on its side as claimed.

Furthermore, Geyssel discloses that the transfer means "can be tilted about two perpendicular directions and can be secured in order that the drinking straws can be secured in different directions and on variously inclined surfaces of the package" (abstract and column 2, lines 24-31), and Geyssel discloses that the drinking straws can be applied to varieties of objects such as packages, bottles, bags, etc. (column 1, lines 43-46), therefore, the package 12 from figure 9 can be replaced by any articles that the side surface is resting on the conveyor surface opposite to the receiving surface, and the transfer means is arranged so that the drinking straw while being handed over encloses an acute angle  $\theta$  as claimed.
